

Regenerative Amazonian Cacao Nibs: Empowering Farmers & Restoring the Rainforest

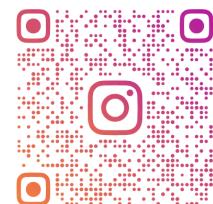

Discover our sustainably sourced cacao nibs, cultivated by Amazon farmers employing agroforestry methods to restore our rainforest. With each nib, you uplift local communities through fair trade and embrace the rich flavor of raw cacao.

Conventional chocolate production often drives farmers to adopt practices like soybean farming and cattle ranching – the primary causes of Amazon deforestation, exacerbating climate change – due to receiving only 6.6% of a chocolate bar's cost. Agroverse challenges this by offering farmers 34% per bag – five times more – promoting regenerative farming and equitable income.

In addition to supporting a sustainable future and combating climate change, our cacao nibs provide various health benefits, such as antioxidants, magnesium, and mood-boosting compounds.
