

Agroverse: Regenerating the Amazon, One Cacao at a Time

About Agroverse

Born from a vision of harmony between people and planet, Agroverse—led by TrueSight DAO—brings regenerative cacao from Brazil's heartland to your mindful moments. We partner with small-scale farmers in Bahia and Pará to transform degraded lands into thriving ecosystems, one cacao pod at a time. What was once barren soil from cattle ranching and soybean fields now blooms with ancient agroforestry traditions, sequestering carbon, enriching biodiversity, and nurturing resilient communities.

Our Mission

To regenerate 10,000 hectares of the Amazon—an area the size of Paris—through sustainable agriculture and conscious connection. Every harvest isn't just a crop; it's a step toward climate resilience, soil revival, and equitable livelihoods. Join us in hosting cacao circles—gathering spaces for meditation, celebration, and shared purpose.

Farmers & Practices

In the lush regions of Bahia and Pará, families like those at Oscar's Farm in Bahia honor centuries-old methods. They plant cacao amid native trees, reviving the rainforest's web of life. No monocultures here—just diverse, regenerative systems that heal the earth while providing for generations. Trace your cacao's journey via QR code: from pod to plate, with farm videos and shipment stories that reveal the human hands behind the magic. Each bag supports restoration and invites you into our cacao circles worldwide.

Partnership with Green Gulch Zen Monastery

Here at Green Gulch, our cacao meets Zen practice: a bridge between Amazon renewal and Marin mindfulness. May these offerings inspire equanimity in every bite—tasting the suchness of regeneration.
