

Gary Teh <garyjob@agroverse.shop>

Follow-up – Ceremonial cacao & cacao tea at Miss Anne's Maypop

1 message

Gary Teh <garyjob@agroverse.shop>

Sun, Mar 22, 2026 at 11:16 AM

To: maypopherbshop@gmail.com

Good morning Anne,

I hope you're doing well.

I stopped by Miss Anne's Maypop recently and spoke with Laurel. She suggested I reach out to you directly. I left ceremonial cacao and a cacao tea sample with the team for you to try when you have a moment.

The ceremonial cacao is from Oscar's Farm in Bahia, Brazil:

<https://agroverse.shop/farms/oscar-bahia/index.html>

The cacao tea is from Paulo's La do Sitio Farm in Pará:

<https://agroverse.shop/farms/paulo-la-do-sitio-para/index.html>

Each farm has its own taste profile, and we partner with several regenerative farms across the Brazilian Amazon.

I really appreciated how Laurel took time to walk visitors through their prescriptions with such care—it's clear your apothecary values depth and education. I also noticed the thought you put into the health of the space, including asking visitors to wear masks. That kind of intention stands out, and it feels aligned with how we think about cacao: as something to offer clearly, respectfully, and in context for each person.

If it's useful, we put together a short read on cacao and wellness—traditions, what's in the bean, and how people often use it alongside rest and ritual (not medical advice):

<https://agroverse.shop/post/cacao-minerals-benefits-and-bean-uses-a-deep-dive/>

I'd be glad to follow up on whether the samples resonated and whether you might be interested in carrying our line. We're happy to start with something modest—e.g. five bags of ceremonial cacao on the same consignment approach we use with other shops—and we also offer cacao tea wholesale.

Behind the products is a simple mission: regenerative cacao in the Amazon, with each bag tied to tree-planting toward a broader rainforest restoration goal.

If a brief call would help, I'm happy to find a time that works for you.

Warmly,
Gary

 Email tracked with Mailsuite · Opt out