Hey Gary,

Thanks so much for getting back to me - really appreciate the transparency, and it's great to hear that Cacau sales through Agroverse is where your energy is focused right now. That actually makes a lot of sense given where the project is at.

To answer your question directly: we don't work on a fully commission basis, and I want to be upfront about that rather than waste your time. Our engagements are retainer-based, and here's why I think that's actually a really good thing for you.

When agencies work purely on commission, the incentive is to chase short-term conversions rather than build the kind of community and brand trust that drives sustained Cacau sales over time. What we do is build a long-term growth engine on TikTok - one that keeps working for you month after month.

In terms of what that looks like practically, our retainers typically start from around $2,500/month for organic content strategy and execution. To give you a sense of what that gets you in return - we worked with a fintech app called Tin Savings and helped them go from zero to 420,000+ followers across platforms, with a cost per install of just $0.60 (down from a $5.00 target). That's an 88% reduction in acquisition costs.

For Agroverse, the equivalent would be building a TikTok presence that tells the story of your cacao farmers, the transparency of your supply chain, and the real-world impact behind every purchase. That kind of content converts - especially with the Gen Z audience, who actively seek out brands with purpose and proof.

The way I see it, even a modest uplift in Cacau sales off the back of a targeted TikTok strategy would more than cover the monthly investment. And with the Edgar platform automating your sales workflows, combining that with a strong social growth engine could be a really powerful combination.

I'd love to show you exactly how that playbook would look for Agroverse specifically. Would you be open to a quick 20-minute call to explore it? You can book a call here and pick a time that works for you.

No pressure at all - just want to make sure you have the full picture before deciding either way.

All the best,
Timoté

Good morning our key focus right now is driving Cacau sales via the agroverse project

Are you willing to work on a fully commission basis? Otherwise, it's only based on tokens

If not, no further discussion necessary

Hi Gary,

I was reviewing your Edgar AI Agent platform and your goal of channeling liquidity toward agroforestry ventures. This made me think about an untapped audience for TrueSight DAO.

Young With Solutions specializes in connecting with the socially-conscious Gen Z community on TikTok. We helped a fintech app go from zero social presence to over 400,000 new followers by speaking their language.

Imagine applying that targeted growth engine to attract the next wave of contributors to your DAO. This would directly support your treasury and mission.

Would you be open to a quick 15-minute chat this week to see the playbook? I am confident we could help you bridge that gap.

I really believe there is a unique synergy here to attract contributors who care deeply about your cause, but I completely understand if the timing is not right. Just let me know and I will respect your inbox.

All the best,

economic ecosystem. The way you are tokenizing acts of compassion and building ventures like Agroverse and SunMint is innovative work the world needs.

I don't think that actually works because no one's on the salary in the project. It's basically a community project.

If you want to contribute to the project, you can either opt to contribute your time and resources in exchange for voting rights in the project. Or basically work as a sales representative so the product for each unit sold you get eight dollars that's all we have available..

Everyone is contributing strictly on the voluntary basis so there's technically no boss to ask for a salary or a Retainer.

You are your boss.
